

Geller Family Office Taps Tax Pro

New York-based Geller Family Office Services has hired Chris Vescio, a former director from accounting firm RSM McGladrey, for a newly-created post of manager.

Maria Neary, managing director, said the firm decided to bring on New York-based Vescio because of his extensive tax background. He will work with the division's ultra-high-net-worth clients as head of the tax planning group, which the firm plans to build out next year. Neary said the firm is in expansion mode and plans to bring on more advisors in 2009, but a targeted number could not be determined. Calls to Vescio were referred to Neary. A spokeswoman for RSM McGladrey did not return calls about replacement plans by press time.

The division provides families and wealthy individuals with investment, risk management, tax, bill pay and concierge services. Parent company Geller & Company is a New York-based accounting, finance and tax outsourcing firm for private clients and institutions. Gary Teigman and David Glaser at search firm ECG Resources conducted the search. (PAM Private Asset Management www.pammagazine.com)